I find the Pocket Genius books to be perfect for the grab-and-go situation. For example, you know you will have to drive long distance with the kids in the car. Who likes a child who complains while driving for an extended period of time. I remember when I was about seven years old that my mom had packed a special basket for me as we drove to Florida. When we drove back home, the things in the basket were changed in order to entertain me. These books are perfect for this kind of situation because they are small, don't take a lot of space and contains educational information in them. They can be easily slip into a backpacks and will appeal even kids in middle school. These book contain facts and information on specific subjects that could be interesting for kids.

MAMMALS

Over 200 profiles of individual species as well as informative spreads on anatomy, behavior, and classification will be found in this title. However, it only covers a small fractions of all the mammals found on earth. But Pocket Genius: Mammals will look at humans, whales, wallabies, camels and more and their place in the natural world. It will explain their diet, how they defend themselves, their habitats and much more. It will present you egg-laying mammals as well as pouched and placental ones. In the end of the book, your child will be able to discover the record breakers mammals as well as amazing animals based on their senses, their longevity, if they are found in myths, the ones who went to space and the mammals in movies. My only issue with this title is that human have been places into the primate section. Apart from that I think it is a fun book to have while traveling or waiting for an appointment.

In conclusion, I can only say that I really like the Pocket Genius titles for various reasons. They are easy to grand and go, they are informative, they cover specific subjects that would be interesting for kids, and they will encourage your kids to dig more on a specific subjects when they are done with it.
