This series of small primers on drawing encourages readers not only to pick up a pen and start drawing, but to see the world that surrounds them with fresh eyes. Visual thinking and using one's imagination are skills that are often neglected in today's world. With author Peter Jenny's help, readers will learn to perceive their environment in a new way and will soon follow his lead, discovering the joy of drawing. The three books in the series each present a short introduction by Jenny and twenty-two easy exercises, with each book focusing on a different aspect: Notes on Drawing Technique takes actions such as gesticulating, touching, feeling, doodling, and moving as the starting points for putting pen to paper. Notes on Figure Drawing focuses on the archetypal presentation of the human figure, and Learning to See teaches the reader to discover art in everyday objects.

As a naturally creative person I already see imagery in everything. So wasn't too impressed by this book. This book does get the creative juices flowing though if your are looking for ways to come up with inspiration. You need to look at the book as a tool to help you practice finding inspiration. You may be disappointed if you are thinking it will offer you a mind bending experience, but its an interesting concept. Has a lot of pages showing seemingly random imagery (like crinkled up paper) then finding shapes, faces, animals etc in them.
